THE HOP CROP

New York State.

The condition of hops in various parts of the country is good and in New York state where they were very backward and started out quite discouraging they have regained all lost energy and the crop is now in a better state than could have been hoped for by the most hopeful several weeks ago. The vine has a rich color and is growing very fast is the erdict of many growers all over the New York hop districts.

The Oneonta Herald of June 12th says: The outlook for the growing crop in Otsego county is good, and vards which were not neglected a year ago are well advanced and thrifty. Old and ill-tended yards of course show the effects of neglect. There are no indications of verweek or two ago. The quotations are not appreciably higher, but this is beany figures paid. The actual advance in se lers. Of ers to contract the new crop for 15 cents have been made, with no laxative takers among the growers.

-Cobleskill Times, June 15: The hop market continues firm, with a gradnal rising tendency. One dealer said yesterday that he should not be be surprised to see hops go to 18 or 20 cents, before the fall harvest. The benefit derived therefrom would not be great, however, as the last year's crop is nearly disposed of. Rain is badly needed in the yards here about.

Judge William Martin.

Connty Judge William Martin died at is home in Pendleton last Sunday. He had been sheriff of Umatilla county three terms, sheriff of Siskiyon county. California, mayor of Pendleton, and had he lived until next year would have served 12 years as judge of Umatilla

He was one of the early pioneers, and had, besides the title of judge, that of captain, which he earned in the Indian wars. Judge Martin was 77 years old, and had always had good health up to June 15 when he suffered from an apoplectic stroke. He arrived in Oregon in December, 1843. In 1846, having made himself 'quickly part of the new country into which he had come, he was elected sheriff of Champoeg county. This was one of the early political sub-division of the state, embracing all of that part of the Willamette valley on the east side of the river, from the Molalla on the north to the south; or, all of what is now com-comprised within the counties of Marion md Linn, a part of Clackamas and all of Lane east of the Willamette.
